throng until reaching a convenient distanch I found standing room. It was just as Mr. Prehists rose to speak. I took out my watch to from this rose to speak. I took out my watch to from the him. The cheering was veciferous and I falled to bear has commencement, and stated for replace my watch in my jocket. I was arrested by a most starting first of words and stored to the servery faculty. Over facility, was concentrated upon the man and the wonderful flow of burning words. It seemed the fear nation of eloquonee. There was a witchery in his words, clothed in tenes so mellifuous that they not only corresponded but which was they not only corresponded but whether they not only corresponded by watch the heart, and I lost the consciousness of passing time, and when he closed I found my hands holding my watch at the pockot's mouts, waiting the power to replace it. I looked at it and found I had been listening for more finan three hours, and, though over 10 years of age, I felt no fatigue. A friend, a ciergyman, who had followed me into the crowd, suced, pole and agitated, looking at the man after he was seated. As I opproached him he exclaimed: Will you over again doubt that God inspires man?
